

Fast Facts

Americas Styrenics commenced operations on May 1, 2008 as the leading polystyrene manufacturer in the Americas. It is equally owned by The Dow Chemical Company and Chevron Phillips Chemical Company LP.

- Safety is our number one priority.
- Americas Styrenics has the largest polystyrene capacity in the Western Hemisphere.
- Americas Styrenics is the No. 2 producer of styrene in the Americas.
- Americas Styrenics is headquartered in The Woodlands, Texas.
- Tim Roberts is the president and CEO of Americas Styrenics.
- Americas Styrenics has eight manufacturing plants in the United States, Brazil and Colombia
  - Polystyrene
    - Cartagena, Colombia; Gales Ferry, Connecticut; Guaruja, Brazil; Ironton, Ohio; Joliet, Illinois; Marietta, Ohio; Torrance, California
  - Styrene
    - St. James, Louisiana
- Americas Styrenics produces a variety of polystyrene resins - crystal, general purpose (GPPS) and high impact (HIPS).
- Americas Styrenics offers a wide selection of leading polystyrene products – STYRON™ polystyrene, STYRON A-Tech™ polystyrene resins and Valtra® Advanced Styrenic Polymers.
- Americas Styrenics is a leader in the thermoforming, extrusion and injection molding markets. It offers a multitude of products in a range of applications, including consumer electronics, building and construction, health and hygiene, appliances and packaging.